

HAVE YOU CHANGED?

The pandemic has changed us all, including the people who live here.

THINGS YOU CAN DO FOR YOURSELF

1. Don't believe anything your mind tells you unless it is: I AM DOING THE BEST I CAN IN A VERY DIFFICULT TIME. Be as kind to yourself as you would be to your most vulnerable patient.
2. Eat, sleep, move, go outside. Do 4 deep, mindful breaths. Walk outside if you can. Keep nourishing snacks accessible. Go to bed and wake up in a normal routine. Exercise, preferably in the sunlight - 10 minutes still counts! Yes, EVERY DAY.
3. Connect with peers. Identify a battle buddy/buddies, preferably a peer outside your location who knows what you're going through. Do it formally. Agree to minimally check in with each other once a day to listen and validate.
4. Recharge. Unplug. Put your phone in a phone hotel for a set time while you spend time with family or friends at home or virtually – every day, no matter how brief. Watch TV, read a book – just take a break! Check out of the 24/7 news cycle by scheduling news hours (instead of the other way around).
5. Stop the anxiety loop. What we practice we perfect. Anxiety is contagious. Now is not the time to make negative thinking worse. Stop the cycle. Stay in the oft-difficult present which is rarely as bad as what we fantasize.

THINGS YOU CAN DO FOR OTHERS (RESIDENTS)

Potential Interventions:

- Create safe comforting spaces: resident rooms, nursing stations.
- Make EVERY interaction with residents personal and meaningful.
- Get outside/in touch with nature.
- Complete a breathing exercise.
- Complete a grounding exercise.
- Help a resident do a favorite pastime (listen to music, read, watch a favorite movie or TV show.)
- Connect: Help residents connect to family, friends, and/or a favorite staff member.
- Obtain external resources: counseling services, spiritual advisors, grief groups.

THINGS YOU CAN DO WITHIN THE NURSING HOME

- Emphasize and demonstrate interdependence. No team member is more important than another.
- Reduce unnecessary tasks.
- Empower everyone to check on patients.
- Cross pollinate roles & responsibilities – dietary can help move beds, social services staff can get people to med carts.
- We all need each other. All hands are needed on deck, maybe in new roles.
- Brainstorm, being creative and humble. There are no bad ideas. Allow new voices to rise.

R-A-I-N

for self-compassion

- R RECOGNIZE (FEELINGS, EMOTIONS, MUSCLE TENSION...)
- A ALLOW THE EXPERIENCE (IT IS HAPPENING, DON'T RESIST)
- I INVESTIGATE WITH INTEREST AND CARE (WHAT IS ACTUALLY HAPPENING RIGHT NOW?)
- N NURTURE WITH SELF-COMPASSION (AND NON-JUDGMENT)
